KRIS KRINGLE HERE AT LAST

MARYVILLE IS THRONGED TO GREET HIS MAJESTY.

CANDY BY THE BARREL

Small Hearts by the Hundred Palpitate at Sight of Santa Claus in Red Coat and White Fur.

And Santa Claus came at last!

Yessir, he was here today in his bright red coat trimmed in white fur, and he passed candy and waved to the great crowds of boys and girls who thronged the streets to greet him. Hundreds of tiny hands went up to wave to Kris Kringle and to reach for the generous portions of candy that were thrown from the car.

This was Santa's second pre-Christmas trip to Nodaway County. He made his initial trip last year and liked it here so much that he returned. And there were even more children to see Santa this year than last. "The "square" was a mass of boys and girls of all ages.

Roads leading to Maryville were streamed with cars long before noon, all coming to bring kiddies to see Santa. Several hours before the time for His Majesty's appearance the streets were lined ith children of all ages, and it looked as if there is no age limit to "children" the day Santa comes to town.

And oh, yes, you must hear about the candy! You never saw so much—barrels of it was passed out to the children. There was so much candy that Santa had to have help in order to distribute it. He asked Mr. Arch Frank and Mr. James Cummins and some of the girls in Maryville High School to help him.

It was one grand reception after another all the way through the streets, but when Santa pulled up to the courthouse and actually stopped, well, that was a real thrill.

There wasn't any of this "whispering" stuff. No sir, it was, "Oh Santa, whatcha goin' to bring me," or "Say, Santa, I wanta sled," yelled at the top of voices that greeted the merry old Saint.

It seemed like everyone was happier after seeing Santa. The crowds were smiling and laughing and even Santa himself gave a few gruff chuckles and twinkled those kindly eyes as he saw how happy everyone was.

Cries of "Here he is,' and "Lookee, such a long beard," and "There he goes," were given out by the hundreds as Santa made his way through the streets of Maryville. It was like ploughing through streets of boys and girls to make headway.

The children cheered and cheered and clapped their hands. How their eyes widened! How they wished to run toward that friendly figure and clutch that mittened hand. The little ones just smiled and smiled their happiness until it seemed that they were all struck mute with their wonder.

My, what a day. The jolly old Santa's reindeers, which have pranced on the housetops of the world, pawed their way from the far north to bring Santa here today. It was necessary to leave them elsewhere though, because Maryville had no snow this week.

And then the thrill of getting ready to see Santa. There were the Saturday morning chores, how hard it was to do them! Sweep walks in the day Santa comes! Then dressing for Santa! What a fluffing of hair ribbons! What a brushing of coats! What a combing and parting of hair! Santa doesn't come to town every day, does he No sir, I should say not. Well, today was sort of special, extra, extra special!

Then the trip downtown to see him. The waiting and then, ah, then, the blowing of the bugle and at last he came! It was indeed a great day.

From here Santa went to Barnard and Guilford for short stops and it is reported that he will visit other towns in the county before the week is over. Of course he will visit all towns where there are good zoys and girls Friday night. Oh boy!

Burlington Junction was also visited this afternoon.

The following members were re-elected from each township of the county to act as a board of directors for 1927:

The board of directors held a meeting this morning at the office of the County Farm Bureau. Those present were R. E. Thomas, retiring president of the Asosciation; J. L. Bosch, vice-president and C. L. Wells, secretary-treasurer; D. O. Groves, Hughes; C. A. Harmon, Union; Hugh McDonald, Green; Frank Miller, Hopkins; Fred Armstrong, Polk and W. H. Goforth, Grant.

JOB EXPECTS BUSY SESSION

LEGISLATURE TO BE SWAMPED, HE PREDICTS.

CAN'T CONSIDER ALL

An Impossibility To Take Up Every Measure Proposed, Representative Says.—Welcomes Suggestions.

A busy session for the Missouri Legislature is forecast by William Job, Nodaway County's representative, who plans to leave Maryville for Jefferson City in time to attend the opening session on January 5.

Representative Job sees little chance to enact all the legislation that has been suggested.

"Demands for legislation by various organizations to be made of the Assembly, if given the consideration it should have, would force us to remain in session several months," said Mr. Job today. "Under the Constitution we can remain in session only 70 days at $5.00 per day, after which we receive $1 per day. It is not humanly possible to take up these different measures with any degree of intelligent application and pass upon them.

Many Proposed Laws.

"We will be asked to make over the criminal code and rearrange court procedure; establish and regulate a state patrol system; grant home rule for police in large cities; provide state wide methods for controlling motor vehicles on public highways, and to change the maximum speed limit from 25 miles to 45 miles per hour, to remodel the state government and adopt a new budget system, to revise the prohibitory laws and make them more drastic; to extend the social justice statute of the state; to codify and rearrange the banking laws; to remodel the druggist's laws; enact of several farm laws, a motor bus act, a medical practice act barber shop laws, stringent laws for loan sharks, the county unit school bill and to ratify the child labor amendment for persons under 18 years of age.

"Chas A. Lee, State superintendent of schools will submit a program, redistricting the state into larger districts, asking for reorganization of the county school superintendent's office, providing for public junior colleges, increasing teachers' salaries, and creating a state public school architect.

"Governor Sam A. Baker will propose a program for schools, including a 10 per cent tax on chewing gum, candy, cigars, tobacco, cigarettes, and snuff, 10 per cent tax on tickets to all amusements and athletic events to which admission is charged, and transfer from the revenue fund to this fund the inheritance tax and insurance tax and a lso a tax on mine products."

Against Child Labor Law.

Mr. Job indicated that he would oppose the ratification of the child labor amendment, declaring that if ratified, it "will necessitate additional room at the reformatories."

In connection with a proposal to increase the governor's salary from $5,000 to $10,000, he pointed out that the governor is now receiving, in salary and from various other sources, "something like $15,000 yearly."

"A state teachers pension, an old peoples pension, a $100,000,000 road bond issue, and increase of motor and gas tax, will be proposed," he continued.

"The various state officials, boards, bureaus, commissions, the State University and State Teachers Colleges are asking for $28,000,000 more for their budgets than the revenue of the state can possibly allow them, without a very radical increase of taxation in its various forms," Mr. Job declared.

"Many of the changes," he added, "are praiseworthy and should by all means be adopted.—A number of them I have always advocated. Many of them, however, and other proposed changes that I have not space to mention, have no real virtue for the welfare of the state at large except a few good fat jobs for state salary grafters, of which we now have plenty.

Usually Provides Job.

"It is always possible for even the most earnest and conscientious people to be wrong; many of them are inclined to exaggeration of the importance of things in which they are interested. I have had several years of experience in watching, listening to and dealing with individuals and organizations advocating pet reforms, and have learned that in most cases there i s a good fat

SANTA LIKES OUR CHILDREN

HEARS ONLY GOOD FROM NODAWAY COUNTY, HE SAYS.

MRS. SANTA NOT HERE

Last Year She Tried to Drive From Back Seat, Merry Old Saint Says. Got the Letters.

"I am afraid that I am a little bit partial to the girls and boys of Nodaway County," declared Santa Claus today when he stopped at the Democrat-Forum office to leave a little message of greeting for the children.

"Tell the children that I love them all and that I have a big book telling me which ones have been good this year. I shall be back Friday night and I don't want to see a single boy or girl peeping to see what I have left for them," Kris Kringle said in his big, gruff voice.

"I am sorry that I could not bring my reindeers this year, but there wasn't any snow. However, when I come back Friday night with the gifts I shall come in my sleigh and use the reindeers if the weather man will leave a little snow for me. However, I shall be going so fast that night that no one will be able to see me, even if they stay up.

"I had such a good time with your children here last year that I just couldn't miss a chance to see them today," Santa declared, "they are all such good children and it seems to me that always it is something good I am hearing about my children here.

"My happiness comes from seeing others happy and giving to others," the veteran cheer-maker said. "Mrs. Santa and I have spent this whole year working to make others happy for Christmas; that is why we are so happy ourselves.

"No, Mrs. Santa isn't with me this trip. She stayed at home to feed the reindeer and to finish reading all of my mail I've been getting lately, especially those letters from the boys and girls of Nodaway County. She may come with me on my trip next week but I haven't asked her yet. You know she almost made me late last Christmas Eve waiting for her to get ready, and after she got in the sleigh she found she had forgotten her goloshes. Then after we did get started we got off the road and had to detour around a bank of snow clouds because she insisted on driving from the back seat. The Missus is all right, though, helps me out a lot and she sure is a good cook," he added, patting the plumpness around his wide belt.

"Well, I must be hurrying along," he said after looking at a huge watch in a fur case. Tell the kiddies to keep on being good. Goodbys 'till next Friday night."

Pop's bought the kids a lot of toys.
They're hidden out of sight,
But when the kids have gone to bed
Pop tries them out each night.

COMPENSATION HEARINGS END

MISSOURI BUSINESS MEN PROTEST COSTLY INSURANCE.

RATES DECLARED HIGH

More Data to Be Submitted in Writing to Ben C. Hyde, State Insurance Commisioner.

St. Louis, Dec. 18.—There will be no more oral hearings on Missouri's new compensation act, Commissioner of Insurance Ben Hyde announced today.

Hyde's announcement followed an all-day hearing attended by some 200 Missouri business men, representing thirty basic industries, to protest against employers' liability insurance rates which will go into effect when the law becomes operative in January. Similar hearings have been held in Kansas City and Jefferson City.

Before adjourning late yesterday, no definite action had been taken at the meeting with exception of resolving to send additional evidence and data by mail to Hyde in the time intervening before the law goes into effect.

It was agreed at the meeting that the insurance companies' schedule under the present law would force employers to pay liability insurance rates between 55 and 60 per cent higher than those paid in Illinois for benefits that average 30 per cent greater.

Most of those attending declared that the insurance rates under the law were too high and that the law itself was too generous. Many delegates said that the law would have the effect of "driving industry" from Missouri.

Ormiston Surrenders; Gets Bond Reduced

Missing Radio Operator Gives Himself Up Voluntarily and Is Freed, Pending Hearing.

Los Angeles, Dec. 18.—Without a lawyer, Kenneth G. Ormiston, long sought codefendant in the Aimee Semple McPherson conspiracy case, appeared in superior court today and had his indictment bail reduced from $10,000 to $2,500.

Ormiston walked into court shortly after he had appeared voluntarily at the district attorney's office and made his official surrender. He walked twenty minutes later, at liberty under the reduced bail.

Date for the radio man's formal arraignment, when a date for his trial was set for Dec. 27.

When Ormiston appeared through a milling throng of curious, he immediately became a center of excitement.

The radio man came here voluntarily and, in his own words, "to vindicate Mrs. McPherson."

Maitland Fair Ground Bought by D. A. Gelvin

Price of $6,100 Will Pay Debts but Leave Little for Association Stockholders.

(Maitland Herald)

Last Thursday afternoon at Oregon the Maitland fair grounds were bought by D. A. Gelvin, the bidding reaching $6,100. John Weller was the only other bidder. The bids began at $4,000.

Including the ditch tax which the buyer assumed, the cost of the land was $6,250.

With the ditch tax the land is to bear, the price is said to be equivalent to $220 an acre.

Mr. Gelvin expects to raze the grandstand and other buildings on the grounds, using the lumber in constructing buildings in his farms. He has lost several farm houses and barns by fire during the past couple of years.

The sum realized is sufficient to pay existing debts of the fair, but will leave little or nothing for stockholders.

This marks the ending of the Maitland fair in its old form. Whether something to take its place, such as a street fair, will be undertaken, only the future can determine.

Here For Holidays.

Miss Betty Selecman returned Thursday night from Park College at Parkville to spend the Christmas vacation with her mother, Mrs. S. G. Selecman. Her brother, M. E. Selecman, who is attending the Medill School of Journalism of Northwestern University at Evanston, Ill., arrived this morning for a holiday visit.

State Rests Case Against McDermott

Evidence To Show Editor's Death Was Underworld Plot Completed Today.

Courthouse, Canton, Ohio, Dec. 18.—The state today rested its case against Pat McDermott on trial here charged with the murder of Don R. Mellet, publisher of the Canton Daily News.

The direct evidence by which the prosecutor has attempted to show that the underworld of Canton plotted the murder to end the editor's attack on vice was completed today.

William Brume, who testified this morning, told of seeing Seranus Lengel, deposed police chief of Canton, at the store of Ben Rudner, one of the alleged conspirators on two occasions shortly before the killing.

SPEND, IS CRY IN CONGRESS

DEMANDS GROW FOR PUBLIC BUILDINGS.

WOULD ADD TO BILL

Non-Partisan Group Would Let Smaller Cities Share New Postoffices.—Also Attack River Report.

Washington, Dec. 18.—Additional demands for federal funds for public work, which President Coolidge anticipated shortly before Congress convened, are being made on Capitol Hill.

Despite the President's warning against increasing the budget, the Senate and House have been deluged with new proposals.

As a result of Secretary Mellon's statement that small cities will receive little benefit fro mthe $150,000,000 public buildings bill passed last session, a non-partisan group is being formed in the House to increase the fund to $250,000,000.

Mellon told the public buildings committee the survey conducted to determine where the $150,000,000 was to be spent was being confined to cities with postal receipts of $20,00 or more a year. Committee members brought out that six large cities would absorb nearly half of this sum. Representative Reed, Republican, New York, has introduced a bill providing for the $100,000,000 increase. Many members of the public buildings committee are known to be in sympathy with the proposal.

Meanwhile middle western members are organized to overthrow the report of Major-General Jadwin, chief of Army engineers.

Compromise Adopted by Senate on Rivers

Bill Would Give 12 Million for Improvement of Missouri Between Kansas City and Sioux City.

Washington, Dec. 18.—A compromise provision in the rivers and harbors bill which will give $12,000,000 for improvement of the Missouri river between Kansas City and Sioux City was adopted today by the Senate.

The compromise specifically states that a six-foot channel shall be maintained between these two points and eliminates the requirement for contributions from landowners along the stream.

APPROVEL FOR NEW CRUISERS

PRESIDENT SANCTIONS BUILDING OF TEN.

COST $10,000,000 EACH

Announcement Follows Conference With Members of House Committee.—Private Building Urged.

Washington, Dec. 18.—President Coolidge has approved House naval committee recommendations for building of ten new cruisers for the Navy.

Announcement of the President's approval of the bill was made today by Representative Butler, Republican, Pennsylvania, chairman of the committee.

He said the President had given "his entire and cordial approval" for the construction of the vessels at a conference last night at the White House with five members of the committee.

Butler announced he would introduce the bill authorizing the President to undertake construction of the ships at a cost of not to exceed ten million each.

He said he would advocate construction of the ships by private builders.

The bill will give the President authority to suspend construction of the vessels in the event of another conference on limitation of armaments.

Smith Is Advised Not to Force Issue

Illinois Senator-Elect Probably Will Delay Presenting Credentials To The Senate.

Washington, Dec. 18.—Additional representations have been made by Senate Republican leaders to delay the coming of Senator-designate Frank L. Smith, Republican, Illinois, to Washington until the latter part of this session.

William Hale Thompson, former Chicago mayor, who has been here for several days, is understood to have returned with advice from Republican leaders to Smith, urging him not to force the issue of his seating at this time.

Word has come directly from Smith that he now believes he will delay presentation of his credentials.

A fight to prevent him from taking his seat is certain to break out as soon as he offers his credentials.

Marx Cabinet Defeat Is Laid to the Army

Alleged Nationalists Tried to Swing Morale of German Army Against Republic.

Berlin, Dec. 18.—The German army, center of a memorable disturbance beginning in 1914, today was generally recognized as the source of trouble which resulted yesterday in the overflow of the Marx cabinet.

Beneath dissensions in the Reichtag lurked the fear of Socialist leaders that the army, which they intended to demilitarize had slipped into the hands of reactionary militarists largely embracing the old imperial military clique.

The Socialists charged that Otto Gessler, minister of defense, nominally a member of the Democratic party, was in reality playing a "jingoistic" game. There were whispered allegations that he was permitting the nationalist officers to swing the morale of the German army against the Republic.

Thus it was believed that the successful effort to oust the Marx regime was primarily designed as a move to expel Gessler from the ministry.

Young Boys Try to Rob Theater

One Is Shot In Foot By East St. Louis Policeman.—Quartet Ranges In Age From 11 to 15.

East St. Louis, Dec. 18.—Four small boys—ranging in age from 11 to 15 years— were held in St. Louis today charged with having attempted to rob a theater last night.

One of the boys, Patrick O'Donnell, 11, was in a hospital where he received treatment for a foot shattered by a shot from a policemans revolver.

THE ONLY DAILY PAPER IN NODAWAY COUNTY.

Fifty Years Ago

(Items taken from the Nodaway Democrat of Issue of Dec. 14, 1876).

The weather last week got as cold as five degrees below zero.

The minds of the little folks now are filled with ideas of Santa Claus.

We learn from Marteny Skidmore the corn crop is yielding better than was even anticipated in his part of the county. We have been blessed with an excellent corn crop in Nodaway County this year. It behooves our farmers to take good care of their corn. By doing so we will have a sufficient surplus, perhaps, to do us another year, if grasshoppers should materially injure our crop next season, which, by the way, we do not greatly fear.

From James Johnson we learn that the school house at Xenia, in Union township, burned down on last Friday night. It is supposed that the fire originated from a defect in the flue. The greater part of the books used by the school were consumed in the fire. This is quite a severe loss to the district.

The Masonic lodges of this city will have a public installation of officers on St. John's Day, Dec. 27, and also a public dinner. The installation will take place in the Christian Church at 1 o'clock after which dinner will be served at Union Hall. A grand Masonic ball will be held in Union Hall in the evening.

The real estate transfers for the week ending Dec. 9, amount to $22,874.

Girl Has Earache, Pin Found Imbedded

Miss Geneva Williams, living south of Graham, had been having the earache. Thursday she was brought to a physician in Graham, and it was discovered that she had a pin in her ear.

When the pin was removed it was imbedded in some dirt. The girl then recalled that she had been hit in the ear with a mud ball some time ago. The pin had been dropped in her ear while efforts were being made to remove the mud ball.

Hints and Helps for Farmers

by Ross J. Fleetwood County Extension Agent

The Northwest Missouri Poultry Association has just completed a very successful show of which they are justly proud. However, there is plenty of work yet to be done and it is hoped that the association will not cease activities but will adopt a definite program of work for the rest of the year. There are problems of breeding, feeding, housing and management which are confronting each member and much mutual help could be gained by monthly meetings to discuss these problems. Some definite problem could be assigned for each meeting and some very definite information presented at each meeting. The association could hardly do a better piece of promotional work than to sponsor Boys' and Girls' club work in poultry. The youngsters will enjoy it and derive much valuable experience from it. If two, three or more clubs could be organized a fine new Junior Department could be added to the show next year. An organization grows as the amount of work it does grows. If the association can adopt and carry out a year around program it will continue to grow rather than decline.

The U. S. Department of Agriculture is now recommending the use of Kamala for tape worms in poultry. The recommended dosage is one gram to each mature bird. It is best given in a No. 000 capsule. These capsules will hold just the right amount if filled full. The birds need not be fasted. This treatment is not satisfactory for round worms or pin worms.

So long as fowls are in high production it is not good policy to give them any worm treatment, because any worm treatment will throw them out of production.

A Health and First Aid club has been organized in the Hagey school near Burlington Junction. These clubs are adaptable to running in conjunction with the regular school work. These clubs take up the health and first aid problems most often met with in every-day life.

There is some agitation in the county for the organization of a cow testing association. A meeting of those interested will be held soon, and I will be glad to have the names of anyone interested. The first meeting will be for the purpose of talking over the proposition and deciding whether or not to try to organize. If enough interest is shown a second organization meeting will be held.

Sues On a Note.

A suit filed on a note today was by Joseph H. Sayler, administrator De Bonus Non of the estate of Maria H. Bowman, deceased, against Will E. Nicholas. The petition alleges this note was purchased from R. N. Barber, when he was cashier of the Northwestern Bank at Burlington Junction.

J. Ross Fleetwood, county farm agent, went to Skidmore this afternoon to organize a baby beef club and a sow and litter club there.

George R. Murray of Oregon, who spent Thursday in Maryville on business, was a guest at the home of W. G. Sawyers.

More Value than the Price Suggests

In the year just drawing to a close the price of Dodge Brothers Motor Cars was materially lowered.

Yet during this period more important improvements were incorporated than in any year in Dodge Brothers history. Advances were made in engineering and body designs. The cars possess a greater degree of smoothness, silence and ease. They are more comfortable, more beautiful.

Current prices—made possible, of course, by constantly mounting sales—are therefore not an obvious measure of value. Prices, in fact, have never told the full story of Dodge Brothers dependability and basic worth.

But now, more than ever before, there is far more value than the price suggests.

Installment Saving

There is nothing wrong with the installment idea. People will do things by installments that they will not do in a lump. If it were not for installments many cusumers would never buy anything that cost over $50 or $100. If all dealers were now to insist upon cash alone without any other help, some of the biggest industries in the country would shut down inside of a week. The whole character of consumer buying has been changed thru the ability to save and to pay by installments. From an economic standpoint, it makes no difference whether people buy large units or small units, whether they buy automobiles or tennis rackets. But it does make a tremendous difference whether the goods are actually paid for and whether or not people are in debt.

We have been thru enough swings of the business pendulum to know what happens to the debtor when general conditions swing against him. The moment an individual puts himself in debt, he forfeits his right to independence and signs up as the servant of the lender. Moreover, before he gets thru with it, he usually pays dearly for serving. When a whole nation of consumers gets into debt, the same is true and all business suffers from it. The fact that being in debt has been given an air of respectability in no wise alters the economic loss.

On one hand, therefore, is the present necessity of doing business on the installment plan. On the other is the positive damage of getting into debt. There is one way out. It has been demonstrated by such plans as the Christmas Club. The fact that it will work is proven by nearly $400,000,000 of Christmas Club deposits which were payable this month. This money was accumulated all thru the year. It was paid in convenient amounts at intervals corresponding to the time that the average consumer received his wages or salary.

The Christmas Club depositors used the installment plan, but with two distinct differences: (1) Instead of paying interest on their money, they have received interest. (2) Instead of buying at top prices, they can go into the stores with cash in hand and get the benefit of every bargain offered. There is nothing so effective as ready cash. It is a safe estimate that the people who have accumulated these $400,000,000 of deposits will get at least 10% or 15% more for the money they spend than will the others who "ride while they pay." The slogan ought to be: "Those who have the sense to walk while they pay may soon ride at a reduced price."

The Christmas Club plan, if sufficiently developed, could be the solution of installment buying. There is no reason why the plan should be limited to Christmas. We can have an automobile club, maturing in the spring when people want to buy cars; there are already some vacation club with the year maturing the first of July or August; there can be a going-away-winters club; a seasonal clothing club; a coal club. In fact, everything that now is bought on installments could be bought to a better advantage by the Savings Club plan. Moreover, the total amount of business and the amount of profit to the legitimate manufacturer, dealer and banker would be greater on this plan.

Remember that people want to do things on installments and it should be possible for them to do so. But help them to do their saving by installment and their spending for cash. Several hundred million dollars that now go for high cost financing would then go for goods. It will increase the total amount of business done and what is more, it will pull your business out of an unstable position and put it on a sound credit basis. The solution of this whole installment problem lies not in killing the installment idea, but in using it to build up your customers rather than to weaken them.

We urge clients to get behind the Savings Club plan. If practicable, combine with others in your industry and organize a club that will help people to buy your particular goods. At least, back up the banks that are leading in this savings movement. Feature it in your advertising. Congratulate the people who have followed this plan and offer them maximum values for their spot cash. Certainly it should be possible, if enough companies will do it, to offer better price inducements to customers who pay cash. The savings club leads to cash business. To the extent that the machinery of installment buying can be turned to installment saving and buying, everyone will be better off, the consumer, the dealer, the manufacturer and the banker. What is more, if the present mania for getting into debt can be checked and the Savings Club movement can be carried far enough, it may save us some day from the worst depression we have ever had.

Nathaniel Sisson Writes of Governor A. P. Morehouse for Historical Society

The founding of the Nodaway Democrat by Albert P. Morehouse in 1869, "illustrates in a marked degree the generous character of his mind," wrote Nathaniel Sisson in Volume VII of "Messages and proclamations of Governors of the State of Missouri," published by the State Historical Society. The Democrat was the forerunner of the present-day Democrat-Forum and Tribune.

Mr. Sisson has just received from Floyd C. Shoemaker, secretary of the Historical Society, the volume in which Mr. Sisson's biographical sketch of Governor Morehouse appears. The volume also includes biographical sketches and messages and proclamations of Governors John Sappington Marmaduke and David Rowland.

Mr. Sisson wrote further, regarding Governor Morehouse and The Democrat:

"At the close of the Civil War, the people of the State adopted a new Constitution, which disqualified from voting all citizens except the old unconditional Union Men. Many of Missouri's otherwise good citizens found themselves disfranchised. This condition gave rise to the necessity of a change in the Constitution to enable these people to participate in their local public affairs. In the advocacy of this change, Morehouse established his newspaper. This move illustrates well a leading characteristic of the man. He was sympathetic and generous throughout his whole career and practiced charity and good fellowship."

The State Historical Society of Missouri was wise in its choice of Mr. Sisson to write a biographical sketch of the only man to represent Northwest Missouri in the state executive chair.

Mr. Sisson was given an insight of the life and characteristics of Mr. Morehouse through his connection with him in the firm of Morehouse, Sisson & Co., engaged in the real estate and abstract business.

Governor Morehouse was instrumental in the establishment of the Northwest Missouri State Teachers College at Maryville. In his biography Mr. Sisson said in this regard:

"For the establishment of the institution at Maryville, which became the Northwest Missouri State Teachers College, Morehouse was an ardent laborer, both when representative and when lieutenant governor. While this institution was not established until after his death, nevertheless much credit is due his memory for his zealous advocacy when opportunity presented."

Morehouse represented this county at the General Assembly in 1877-78 and 1883-84. He was elected lieutenant-governor in 1884 and upon the death of Governor Marmaduke, December, 1887, he succeeded to office of governor and served out the unexpired term of Marmaduke.

To Sometimes Split An Infinitive Is All Right, Says Teacher

Evanston, Ill., Dec. 17.—The split infinitive has the "hearty endorsement" of George O. Curme, professor of German philosophy at Northwestern University, who holds that to intelligently split the infinitive is to correctly interpret the language.

Among the Schools of Nodaway County

NEW PROJECT IS TRIED HERE

FIRST OF KIND CONDUCTED IN UNITED STATES.

PUPILS GIVEN TESTS

H. T. Philips, Elizabeth White and Leslie Somerville Compose Advisory Board In Charge.

The project in rural supervision, being carried on in several Nodaway County schools, under the auspices of the Northwest Missouri State Teacher's College and directed by an advisory board composed of Homer T. Phillips, Elizabeth White and Leslie G. Somerville is now well under way.

The administration and selection of the schools was directed by County Superintendent Somerville, and all of these schools are under the supervision of Miss White.

This is the first project of its kind to be conducted in the United States.

The county superintendent and the supervisor have personally conducted the giving of all mental and achievement tests and the supervisor has graded all the intelligence tests. The Pitner-Cunningham and National Intelligence Tests were used to determine mental ability, and the Stanford Achievement Tests were used to measure the educational standing of the children.

In the forty schools where tests were given, twenty have been selected for closer supervision. These schools were selected on the following basis:

Number of children.

Equivalence of schools in

1. Qualifications and professional training of teachers.
2. Salary and experience of teacher.
3. Type of school.
4. Accessibility of school.
5. Classification of school.
6. Number of children tested.
7. Ability of children as indicated by the tests.
8. Co-operative spirit of community.

All mental tests have been graded and results recorded, and most of the achievement tests are also graded.

"Many difficulties," Mr. Somerville said, "have confronted us in this work, such as rain, snow, ice and sleet, bad roads, bridges out, two teachers meetings, office work, and the misfortune of Miss White in getting her ankle broken. She has gone on crutches and kept up the work of testing and grading for over four weeks. In spite of all the difficulties, the task of giving the tests has been completed, and we are now ready to begin our work in supervision."

Today the teachers of the twenty schools are in session at the courthouse. Here they are receiving instructions for better and more intensive work.

Hickory Grove to Present Program

H. S. DEBATES BEGIN JAN. 18

TWENTY-FOUR SCHOOLS TO COMPETE IN SERIES.

DEBATE EVERY 2 WEEK

Adherence of U. S. to Permanent Court of International Justice Topic Selected for Debaters.

The first of a series of high school debates in Northwest Missouri under the supervision of the Northwest Missouri High School Association will begin January 18, according to information received here by William Mapel, corresponding secretary, from J. M. Broadbent, superintendent of the Martinsville High School, debate manager.

Succeeding debates among the school will be held every two weeks and Mr. Broadbent will pair the schools as soon as he receives information as to winners of the previous debates. The schools selected according to his pairings will decide upon the side of the question they will uphold, the place for the debate and the judges.

The question selected for debate this year:

"Resolved: That the Adherence of the United States to the Permanent Court of International Justice (The World Court) under the conditions Approved by the United States Senate on January 27, 1926, is a wise Public Policy."

There are twenty-four high schools in the Association that will participate in the series of debates this season. They are:

Sunrise Students Frame Pictures

The Sunrise school has been framing pictures and the "B" language class wrote the directions for making them. Here they are:

"Some people think a picture looks nicer in a frame than tacked on the wall, so if you would like to frame one, we will tell you how to do it.

"The first thing to do is to get a heavy cardboard or a thin board and cut it about two inches larger than the picture. Square the corners of the cardboard or board. Paste the picture on the cardboard or board about one inch from each side. Then take two small screw eyes and screw them into the margin of the picture about one-third of the way down from the top.

"Take an old tin cup or can, put into it about one-fourth bar of sealing wax and heat over fire or on top of the stove. When it is all melted, take it from the fire and pour it over the margin on one side, using a ruler or straight edge to keep wax from running over on picture. Fix all the sides in the same way, being sure to cover up the little screw ends.

"When the frame is completed take a pencil or small stick and daub the soft wax on the solid frame. Designs may be fixed to resemble real frames.

"When the frame is finished let it set until the wax is cold then paint it. We have used gold enamel for most of our frames. The frame should have two coats of enamel.

"When it is dry, put a picture wire through the screw eyes and fasten it. The picture is ready then to hang up.

"We are planning to frame some for our school room."

Students at Washington School Compose Christmas-Time Verse

The students of the A4 grade of the Washington School, Maryville, have composed Christmas poems. The verses follow:

Santa Claus.

Old Santa Claus is coming,
He isn't far away.
He'll bring his prancing reindeers,
And his pretty sleigh.

He'll fill all the stockings,
Of good little girls and boys
He'll bring oranges, nuts and candy,
And all kinds of toys.

And then he goes away,
As quiet as a mouse,
Away across the snow he goes,
To find another house.

Louis Jackson, A4th Grade,
Washington School.

A Baby Stocking

Hang up your baby's stocking,
And please don't forget.
That the little baby darling,
Has never seen Christmas yet.

And please don't forget,
Your sisters and brothers,
Even tho their stockings
Have been hung up for others.

Everett Kae Donahue, A4th Grade,
Washington School.

Christmas Night

It was Christmas night,
Old Santa would be there alright.
He was coming in a sleigh,
For he was not going to forget to stay.

He came with toys, dolls and books,
For us to hang in the Christmas tree hooks.
But he said that he could not stay,
So away he goes in his sleigh.

Edith Clark, A4th Grade,
Washington School.

When Santa Comes

Over the roofs and thru the town
Old Santa's reindeers flew.
Their hoofs they pranced,
And thru they danced,
Pulling Santa too.

So down the chimney he does glide
Just like a glider glides.
He fills the stockings from top to bottom,
With a great great sottom,
So they will mend and this is the end.

Joe Aley, A4th Grade,
Washington School.

Christmas Day

Dear Santa Claus is coming soon,
And I want a toy balloon.

I want a toy mouse,
I want it in a toy house.

Dear Santa Claus is on his way,
On this Merry Merry Christmas Day.

Louis Ulmer, A4th Grade,
Washington School.

Merry Christmas.

A Merry Christmas to all,
Listen to the baby call
To get to his little toys,
Just like all little boys.

Now the baby begins to play,
With his toys all the day.
Then the baby begins to cry,
Just like his little brother begins to sigh.

Chas. Taylor, A4th Grade,
Washington School.

Santa Claus Is Coming

Santa Claus is coming in his sleigh,
That is really a nice way.
He doesn't come so slow,
For he comes on the snow.

Here comes Old Santa with his pack,
He carries it on his back
He comes with toys
For all little girls and boys.

Harold Jones, A4th Grade,
Washington School.

Santa's Toys

Santa knows I want some toys,
But please don't bring anything for boys.
Old Santa has a fur from his head to his foot,
When he comes down the chimney
He is as black as our soot.

I have written to Santa,
And he knows what I lack,
And he surely will give me,
A scooter from his pack.

I have told him to hand
All his toys around to
All boys and girls
Who live in this town.

Jean Ruth St. Clair, 4th A. Grade,
Washington School.

Santa

Santa surely didn't forget today,
He's coming in his big red sleigh.
He said he would bring me lots of toys,
But all of mine will be for a boy.

Dale Griffith, A4th Grade,
Washington School.

Christmas Eve

Santa Claus is coming nearer,
Hear the sleigh bells ringing clearer.
I want a doll, some books and toys,
And not the things you bring to boys.

He has games and rings and sleds,
And everything for little tads,
He is coming down the chimney now
As fat as he is I don't see how.

He is filling the stockings from top to toe,
There is a ball, a bat and little hoe.
All for little brother, he will be surprised I know,
The oranges are in the top the candy must be in the toe.

Helen Leet, A4th Grade,
Washington School

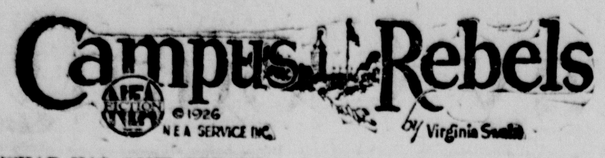
Campus Rebels



WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE.

DEAN TIMOTHY BROWN of Pendleton University wages war on JUDITH MARTIN, young English teacher, because of her friendship for ERIC WATERS, radical student leader.

DR. DORN, astronomy professor, is attracted to Judith and tries to convert her to orthodoxy.

MYRA ALDRICH is jealous of Eric's attentions to Judith and turns her energies to vamping Dr. Dorn.

When Mrs. Brown is blackmailed by "KITTY" SHEA, town bootlegger, Judith befriends her, and asks Eric to silence Shea.

Shea is found dead in a creek, and a letter in his pocket leads to the arrest of Eric as material witness.

Mrs. Brown secures his release by providing an alibi for him which endangers her reputation. Her story is kept secret by the prosecutor.

Dr. Dorn calls on Judith in her classroom, and when Eric intrudes, throws him out of the room. Eric has been drinking and collapses in the hall.

Dean Brown insists that she take part in his reform campaign, which is to end with the mammoth revival meeting of Rev. Forrest Poole.

When she refuses, he tells her that his wife does not wish her to come to the house again.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER XLII.

The dean's words struck sharply on the stillness. For a fraction of a second Judith stared.

The dean stood up. "As an evidence of my wife's wishes, let me point out the fact that she was at home this afternoon when you were seeking entrance. We both feel that further intimacy between you and her is undesirable."

He was standing by the desk, leaning on outspread starfish hands, so that they glowed faintly pink against the table top. His little eyes bored into Judith's face.

Judith turned and walked out of the room.

The shining face of the Rev. Forrest Poole, looking down from every bulletin board and post on the campus, saw some strange sights in the days that followed.

On administration hall, workmen stringing wires around the dome and building huge letters over the entrance, which would say "Welcome" to all sundry visitors on the night of the great rally.

A frequent sight on the campus these days was Dean Timothy Brown, walking arm-in-arm with Peter Dorn. Many people walked with Dorn now—the dean's, the lesser faculty members, sometimes a town minister, and occasionally President Banbury himself.

Judith walked alone.

Will Wetherel followed her through the thicket behind the journalism building one day and caught up with her on the bridge over the slender rill that scampered in and out around the campus.

"Judith," he said, pleadingly. She turned around.

"When are you going to take Eric back into favor? I think you're a little hard on him. He really has had a lot of bad luck lately, and your turning against him is the last straw."

"Did he ask you to come to me, Will?"

Wetherel shook his head. "Nope. But, to tell the truth, I'd like to see him get on his feet again, in time for the inter-collegiate debates. Sigma Psi needs somebody on the team. And Eric has been so sunk in gloom lately that he won't even listen to it. Darn shame, too, when you consider his Princeton debate record."

Judith's lips curled. "Will," she cried, "Darn Sigma Psi. I'll manage my own friendships and enmities." To his surprise, she turned on her heel and left him. But in a moment she was coming back, her hand outstretched. "Forgive me, Will. I had no right to be so snappish with you. But I've had some burdens of my own these days, and they've soured my disposition."

Will accepted her apology with a nod. They began to walk toward the Prairie Schooner. Wetherel was talking volubly, with only a sidewise glance at her now and then for appreciation.

"Look at that silly sign," he exclaimed, waving airily at the letters built over the portal of the administration building. "That's all to impress the legislators. 'Welcome' to their prying noses and their nice fat appropriations in this spring's budget. Old Brown thinks he's made if the state senators go away impressed with the religious renaissance of Pendleton University. He wants a raise."

"State senators?" repeated Judith.

"Yes, didn't you know? They're arriving the night of the rally, to sit on the platform behind Rev. Poole and say 'Amen' between snores Kind-a-hard on you, Judith."

Judith smiled wryly. "And why?"

"Well," drawled Will, "you'll be standing with your little basket of white ribbons at one of the doors, won't you, pinning the emblem of purity on every young rapscallion who comes in?"

"I will not," said Judith grimly.

Wetherel whistled. "Well," that probably means the end of you then. The dean's got his heart set on 100 per cent reform. Yoh're a fly in the ointment for him, anyway. By the way, how does he put up with your being friendly with his wife?"

Judith's face clouded. "He doesn't. It isn't necessary. She broke off friendly relations with me herself a week ago."

"Hm-m," mused Will. "I understood she was pretty strong for you."

This subject gave him thought until they were near the door of the Prairie Schooner. Then he looked up and, taking Judith's arm, turned into the Schooner pathway. "When in doubt, eat," he said. "I sold an old set of sophomore philosophy themes to little Smudge Wilkins today, so I've got twenty-five bones extra to squander. Just remembered a set of Roman architecture papers that ought to bring ten or fifteen too."

"What would you do if the philosophy prof had the same exam reader this year?" asked Judith.

"He hasn't," said Wetherel. "And anyhow, they don't really grade those papers. They take 'em home and throw 'em down the front steps. The ones that land on the top step get A, the second B, and so on."

In the rear end of the crowded room a circle of young men surrounded the largest table. Seated on the end of the table, with his feet on a nearby chair, was Eric Waters.

Judith saw that he was wearing corduroys and a blue sweater. His face, as he bent over the table in deep consultation with the other men, was flushed and earnest. Judith suddenly shifted her place at the table.

"What's the idea? Will inquired. "Oh, I see, you've turned your back to him. Well, don't worry. Waters is too much engrossed in mighty matters just now to pay much attention to you." He wagged his head knowingly.

Judith gave him a glance, and looked again at the crowd around Eric. But she asked no questions. To the tune of Wetherel's endless chatter, she sipped her chocolate with her eyes lowered.

The talk behind her grew louder. "Absolute overthrowal," somebody was saying. Judith strained her ears, but the voice died down and she could hear Eric's lower tones, evidently cautioning his companions to discretion.

"Hell brewin' over there," commented Wetherel, fishing for the cherry in the bottom of his limeade glass. "Every man in that gang leads some cohort of the devil's legions.

"There's Thomas, who is in school on probation, and Bailey, of the TNT's, and Adams, who was kicked off the Sugar and Spice staff for a risque wisecrack, and young Olie Johnson and Scrimp Sewell."

Judith raised her eyes from her chocolate cup. "Will," she said, "what is Eric up to?"

He shook his head. "I don't know. That's one reason why I came to you today. Somebody'd better keep an eye on him."

She shrugged her shoulders. "I'm not his keeper."

Wetherel's eyes narrowed. "Judith, don't you think you owe him something, after all? He's risked a good deal for you, hasn't he?"

Judith flushed. "I don't know what you mean, Will?"

"Then I'll tell you. Have you ever really known what gave Eric that bruise on the temple"

Judith started, but did not reply.

"And do you really know where he was on Christmas Eve?"

For a long moment the girl stared at her plate. Then she rose to her feet suddenly, so that the silver clattered on the table.

"Let's go home," she said, shortly.

Will was watching her with a half-smile. Shrugging his shoulders, he too rose and picked up the check.

The group in the rear of the room was watching them. As Judith turned to picked up her scarf from the back of her chair, she saw Eric climbing down from his position on the table. He bowed, with his hand on his heart.

"Greetings, Miss Judas," he said, smiling coldly.

Several persons near Judith's table heard the words, glanced up and then returned to their own conversation. But in the circle of men behind Eric, a titter ran about.

Wetherel was paying the check and had not noticed the incident. When he had put the change in his pocket and was looking for Judith, she laid her hand on his arm. "Please hurry," she said.

He left her at the Stedway door, and Judith, running up the stairs, stumbled through a mist of tears.

A large square envelope lay under the door of her room.

Job Expects Busy Session

job at the source."

Mr. Job has little use for organized propaganda. "On receiving my mail at the capitol one day," he said in illustration, "a party had sent me a questionnaire that covered almost everything, both private and public, that you could think of. I looked it over very carefully, and wrote at the bottom, 'Oh; Hell,' and returned it. I guess it was satisfactory, as I received no reply. "Now don't think I will not give close attention to any matter that is called to my attention by home folks," the Nodaway County representative hastened to explain. "I am always glad to hear from you and you have no idea how much help it is to get a few suggestions from someone that you can feel is not a party to some pet scheme that will dig just a little deeper into the state revenue."

Will Ask Two New Drainage Districts

Petition to County Court Would End Water Trouble in Mill Creek and Cuyhoga Valleys.

(Burlington Junction Post)

A petition asking the County Court to authorize the organization of two drainage districts will be presented to that body at the January term.

The proposal would establish drainage districts taking in the land along the lower Cuyhoga and Mill Creek Valleys and would mean the straightening of these streams and the providing of an adequate outlet into the new channel of the Nodaway river.

Mill Creek at present empties into the old river channel and is the cause of much of the high water and highway trouble. Cuyhoga is a small stream, but goes wild after a heavy rain. It is thought this trouble can be corrected with these drainage districts, and many acres of fertile land which overflows almost every year causing loss of crops can be reclaimed.

While the matter is to be presented in two petitions, the drainage districts would be separate. The reason for presenting in one petition is from an economy standpoint. Both drainage ditches can be contracted at one time and some other expenses will be lower if action on both is taken at the same time.

Should the court authorize the organization of the districts, it is thought that work on the ditches can begin in the early spring.

When this project is completed much of the highway trouble on the river bottom will be eliminated.

The petition does not ask for a bond issue with which to do the work but proposes that the improvement be paid for in from three to five payments.

Mrs. Mary A. Wood Dies This Morning

Old Resident of Nodaway County Succumbs At Home Of Son In Hopkins.

Mrs. Mary A. Wood of Hopkins, 85 years old, an old resident of Nodaway County, died at 3 o'clock this morning at the home of her son, C. B. Wood of Hopkins, with whom she had lived for several years. Funeral services will be held at 2:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon, the Rev. W. C. Harper, pastor of the Hopkins M. E. Church, officiating. Burial will be in the Hopkins cemetery.

Mrs. Wood's maiden name was Mary A. Dildine. She was born Sept. 6, 1840, at Sarat, Putnam County, Ohio. She was married April 3, 1858, to Isaac M. Wood, who died Sept. 11, 1914, in Maryville. They came to Nodaway County May 27, 1870, settling on the present site of Hopkins. The family formerly lived in Maryville for eighteen years. Mrs. Wood moving to Hopkins about seven years ago.

Another son, Frank Wood of Los Angeles, Cal., also survives. Mrs. Wood was the "mother" of Alert Rebekah Lodge of Maryville, being the oldest member.

When Conscience Troubled, He Paid

Two Tarkio Merchants Receive Surprises From Unknown Who Decided to "Go Right."

(Tarkio Avalanche)

Two local merchants, Jim Wilson and Ardery Curfman, are in receipt of checks recently which, to say the least, were something of a surprise, but which offer convincing proof of the workings of a guilty conscience when its owner decided to tread the "straight and narrow."

It will be recalled that some few years ago Curfman & Sons store was burglarized, and articles of considerable value taken, mostly guns and ammunition. Not long since, Mr. Curfman received a letter from Dallas, Texas, in which was enclosed a check for considerable little amount. The writer explained that he had recently become converted at a revival meeting, that he intended henceforth to live straight, and was enclosing the check to pay for articles which he took from the store when he broke into it. A similar letter was received by Jim Wilson, enclosing a small check for articles which the writer stated he had filched from the store.

This would appear to be one case where a wrongdoer has worked out his own reformation without the help of the law, and we cannot but wish that each and everyone would do likewise.

Dear Santa Claus: I am 6 years old and in the second grade. I want a watch, a knife, some oranges, bananas, raisins, candy and some nuts. And please don't forget the other little boys and girls. Your little friend,

ALUMNI TRIM SPOOFHOUNDS

ARCH FRANK'S GOAL DID IT, FANS MAINTAIN.

SKIDMORE GIRLS LOSE

Maryville Team Wins, 32-11.—Boy's Game A Thriller, Ending 25-24, When Former Stars "Get Hot."

THURSDAY'S CAGE CARD.
Albany Boys vs. Maryville Boys.
Albany Girls vs. Maryville Girls.
At the High School Gymnasium.

With the score tied 10-all at the beginning of the second half, Arch Frank, Maryville bank cashier, was substituted in the Alumni lineup in the basketball tussle with the High School last night. A few seconds later, Ellis, alumni guard, shot the ball to Frank. The cashier, alone at his end of the field, turned around deliberately to slip the oval through the meshes for a 2-point counter.

This, in the opinion of many in basketballdom today, accounted for the slim victory of the Alumni over the Spoofhound quintet by the count of 25 to 24.

The crowd that had gathered to see the Alumni-Spoofhound game and to see the Maryville girls win from Skidmore, 32 to 11, went wild when the banker delivered his contribution to the alumni team, assembled just this week to offer competition for Coach Croy's fast developing cagers in the season's opener.

It might be stated that both teams showed flashes of excellent basketball and when the Alumni, dragging along at the short end of an 18-13 score with only a quarter to go, finally found the basket and Homer Ogden got rather warmish, the unexperienced Spoofhounds, for the moment, said "What's the use." These few minutes gave the Alumni a chance to forge ahead to a 7-point lead that the Croy men were unable to overcome.

Croy put eight men on the maple court to test their ability against seasoned basketball men, who once were stars, but who had not practiced this year. The game showed that Coach Croy has in Swinford a man that will prove dangerous as the season advances, that L. Smith, a newcomer to the Spoofhound squad, is a fighter and doesn't become discouraged.

McMurry, Swinford's running mate at forward, and Petty, captain and guard, were in a large degree responsible for Swinford's success at the basket by feeding him the ball. Charles Kissinger had his well known brother Fox to take care of and did well. Coach Croy after the game said he was entirely satisfied with the showing of the High School boys.

As for the Alumni, there is no use to explain who they were and their capabilities. Chick and Ellis both have found fame on the High School and College courts, while Kissinger, Ogden and O'Banion were shining stars of former Spoofhound teams. Although one may have to go back years to unravel the records of Arch Frank in the field of athletics, he is known to be a consistent booster for the Green and Black.

Although the scores in the girls' game were far apart, they by no means indicate that the game was a walkaway for Maryville. It was far different. But when a girls' team goes on the floor with two such forwards as Maryville boasts, the opposing team that holds them to a low score may well be proud.

Peoples and Money, at guard positions for Skidmore, had a hard proposition. They did well in their efforts to hold in check the scoring powers of C. Wray, R .D. Chick and Puckett.

The battle last night in the center section was about even. The only weakness on the local team, if they may be termed that, was noticed in the Maryville guarding section, but the Maryville midget guards were up against a tall forward in Goslee, and the best she could do was to net three field goals.

Say; listen here, 'tiwxt you and me,
We farmers are all broke,
Taxation stuff and gasoline,
Has put us all to soak.

In spite of them this Yuletide,
Let's spread good will and cheer,
And hope for something better
For the farmers this New Year.

With hopeful hearts and willing hands,
And shoulders to the task,
Let's burn less gas and take less sass,
SQUARE DEAL; is all we ask.

Best wishes for the good people of Nodaway County, Mo., for a Merry Christmas and Happy New Year.

The Tragedy of Broken Toys

When the last greeting of "Merry Christmas" has faded away the toys on the floor are already being forgotten. Battered and broken they have outlived their usefulness. By all means give the children toys—it's part of their lives—but also give them something substantial. Such as a Savings Account. The worthwhile lesson of thrift is thus instilled into youthful minds. And who can deny its value? So this Christmas, along with the trains and dolls, hang one of our bank books on the tree. A dollar opens an account and we'll put forth special efforts to help the children save.

What Some of the Daily Papers say of "The Wanderer."

DAILY NEWS.

The sets are gorgeous. The pictures are worthy of a place in your memory—a lovely pastoral of Jether, the son, tending his flocks in the walled valleys of his sire; a striking scene of a caravan from the east winding its way through a star-spotted night; the glamour of the wicked city of jewels and silks and scents.

A beautiful newcomer, Kathryn Hill, plays the gentle Naomi, who sat at home by the burning lamp, while Jether sought life in the cities. The best performance is given by Ernest Torrence as Tola, the evil one.

TELEGRAPH

The Bible parable of the prodigal son is brought to life on the screen with every technical resource of the studios. Beauty is achieved in groupings, in rich and tasteful settings, which is as unmistakably Raoul Walsh as was his "Thief of Bagdad."

By far the most impressive scenes were those following the prophet's curse, in which the idol Ishtar collapses and her worshippers flee the pagan city. This sequence won the most spontaneous applause of last night's large audience.

Greta Nissen as the siren without a conscience was charming.

EVENING WORLD.

"The Wanderer," which opened last night for an indefinite stay in the Criterion Theatre, is a worthy successor to "The Ten Commandments." It tells a gripping story of the Prodigal Son, with Sodom and Gomorrah and a few other things mixed in, and it is one of the most beautifully luxurious creations ever screened.

"The Wanderer" is a picture that everyone is interested in; a program of moving pictures. Should be one of the greatest and biggest pictures ever shown in this city.
